

About WRIS

WRIS, Inc. is a Cleveland web design and development company founded in 1996. Since our inception, our primary objective has been to develop practical websites and nurture long-term client relationships. We're committed to understanding your business and goals before we even begin your web design project. This approach helps us deliver a finished product that reflects your message, increases profitability and supports steady growth.

The WRIS team is comprised of designers, programmers, project managers and search engine optimization experts specializing in all aspects of web development. We provide start-to-finish web site services including strategic project planning, graphic design, programming, search engine optimization (SEO), web and email hosting, spam and virus filtering, and website analytics.

We develop custom web applications as well as standard modules that can be added to your website. Examples include the WRIS Content Manager, Online Stores, The WRIS Email Engine, Event Calendars, Updateable News Teasers and more.

WRIS has been awarded ten Web Awards for excellence in website design and development since 2003.

Our office is conveniently located in Warrensville Heights on Miles Road between Green and Richmond, across the street from Lowe's Home Improvement.
